Hello AMS Families,

We hope that this correspondence finds you and your loved ones in good health and good spirits. As we close out the first week of our remote learning, we wanted to take a minute to provide you a quick update on a few items:

APS Remote Learning Student Conduct & Protocols:

- As we are sure you understand, the outstanding conduct we see in our classrooms every day from our students is exactly what we hope to see as they transition to their remote learning environments. Please take a moment to review the following linked document with your student: APS Remote Learning Student Conduct & Protocols. This will provide you and your student a clear understanding of our district conduct expectations in a remote learning environment.
- Also, you can find more resources at the APS District Closure & Remote Learning Resources page => Learning Resources => Remote Learning Plans => Tips & Tricks for Online Platforms

Access to AMS:

- At this time, we do not have access to AMS, and we do not see having access in the foreseeable future. The building has been disinfected from top to bottom, and we want to retain its integrity. If and when we are able to open the building, we will send out a correspondence to families, and arrange a time when items can be retrieved.

Conferences:

- As with all school events, conferences are canceled. With that said, if you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to your child's teacher or team via email.

We know you are busy, and we know that you are being pulled in all directions. Like you, I am working to strike a balance between family, work, friends, and keeping my own sanity intact. As I write this, I am staring out my window, listening to a cardinal make its presence known, and watching the squirrels begin to chase each other around the old maple. It is all a reminder that spring is here, the time of rebirth and change in poetry and literature.

We have no doubt that we will emerge from this a stronger nation, a stronger community, and a stronger family. AMS is here to help in what small ways we can. Your children, our students, are as precious to us as they are to you, and we look forward to supporting both them and you in the times to come.

So much for a short note...we promise we will do better next time.

Stay well,
Dave & Kristina
